Product Description

Product Applications

The air curtain plays a crucial role in various fields. Firstly, at hospital operating room entrances, it prevents external bacteria from entering. Secondly, it stops cold air from escaping, maintaining a constant temperature. Thirdly, in pharmaceutical manufacturing areas, it prevents dust contamination of medications. Fourthly, in electronics factories, it reduces the impact of static electricity on electronic products. Lastly, at food warehouse entrances, it keeps out rodents and other small animals. The air curtain provides reliable protection for these specialized environments.

Product Casing

The air curtain's curved casing and metal coating offer distinct advantages. Firstly, the curved design is aesthetically pleasing and enhances the space's elegance. Secondly, it optimizes the air curtain's performance. The metal coating provides durability and pressure resistance, while also being fingerprint-resistant and easy to clean. Lastly, it improves the overall reliability of the product.

Product Motor

The core motor of the air curtain has several notable advantages. Firstly, the high reliability of the pure copper motor minimizes maintenance issues. Secondly, the precision of the ball bearings ensures even and stable air curtain performance. Thirdly, it is energy-efficient, reducing operational costs. Fourthly, with a high protection rating, it withstands harsh environments. Lastly, it comes with excellent after-sales service, providing timely technical support and assurance for users.

product impeller

The fiberglass fan wheel of this air curtain offers five major benefits. Firstly, its high strength ensures safe operation. Secondly, it produces low noise, creating a comfortable environment. Thirdly, it has strong weather resistance, adapting to various climate conditions. Fourthly, it provides a large and stable airflow. Lastly, it is easy to process, meeting diverse design requirements.
